

Call for Abstracts

The IPRED scientific committee invites professionals interested in the various aspects of preparedness and response to emergencies and disasters to submit abstracts of papers for presentation at the conference. Proposals for oral or poster presentations are welcome. Please submit your abstracts through the IPRED web-site a <http://forms.pwizard.com/ipred2014/?f=567475>

ABSTRACTS ARE INVITED IN THE FOLLOWING TOPICS -

Adjusted standards and protocols in disaster medicine	Community and municipal authorities in emergencies & disasters	Cyber terrorism and its implications on health services preparedness	Decision making in emergencies & disasters
Disaster Scene investigation	Disease outbreaks and epidemics, prevention and control	Disasters management – Command, Control, Coordination & Communication	Emergencies & disasters nursing
Emergency medicine in mass gatherings	Emerging, conventional and CBRNe threats	Ethics in emergencies & disasters	Evaluation of emergency preparedness & response
Healthcare planning & optimization in emergencies & disasters	Human resource utilization during disasters	Information systems in emergencies & disasters	International humanitarian aid
Leadership in emergencies & disasters	Lessons learned from recent emergencies & disasters	Logistic management of emergencies & disasters	Maintaining public health following emergencies
Managing acute stress reactions following emergencies	Military and civilian collaboration during emergencies	Natural disasters	Political considerations in emergency preparedness
Promoting population & systems' resilience (Business continuity)	Risk assessment & vulnerability reduction	Risk communication, social media, and public behavior in emergencies & disasters	Safety and security of medical facilities
Search and Rescue operations during disasters	Surveillance & monitoring systems	Training and exercises to promote emergency preparedness	Triage systems and mechanisms during disasters
	Technological innovations to facilitate disaster medicine	Volunteers in emergencies & disasters	